

Delfina N. Conde Latini, born in Argentina, moved to the United States in August 2022 to pursue her studies at North Carolina Wesleyan University as an international student. During her time at the university, Delfina discovered Rotaract, a global network of young leaders committed to making a positive difference in their communities. Recognizing the opportunity to contribute to meaningful change, she became deeply involved and eventually got elected as Rotaract President. Through her involvement with Rotaract, Delfina acquired a solid foundation for service and realized the power of collective action.

Later on, Delfina connected with the Rotarian Action Group Against Slavery (RAGAS), which opened her eyes to the harsh realities of human trafficking and modern-day slavery, as well as the urgent need to combat this grave issue. Working closely with RAGAS, she delved deep into understanding the complexities of human trafficking and recognized the need for raising awareness, taking action, and contributing to its eradication.

Delfina's dedication to raising awareness and contributing to the eradication of human trafficking serves as an inspiration to others. She firmly believes that everyone has a role to play in this fight, and by working together, we can build a world free from the chains of slavery.
